How Handcrafted Soap Cleans

Your body's natural defense to bacteria is your skin, which is the body's largest organ. Your skin produces exterior oil cells which protect it by trapping dirt, bacteria, particles and so on. However, once the oil traps the substance, it cannot be removed by water alone since 1) oil and water do not mix and 2) if your oil was easily removed, it would compromise your body's natural defenses. That's where soap comes in. Without getting into too much detail and to keep this simple, as you use soap, the soap foam attach and bind to the dirt, bacteria, and so on, so when you rinse off the soap carries them away from your body.
